HOAGLAND'S

NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!

W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,

Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling, invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure to inform the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore, easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO JUNE 17.

Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Inquiries from various sources as to the truth of the rumor that Cabinet changes were made to-day, show that nothing has been obtained that would indicate they were well founded.

The House Select Committee on the Cuban bonds business closed investigation to-day, and will make up a report on Monday. Representative Fitch testified that he had never seen Taylor, and McCormick said although he occupied a room in Taylor's house, he never conversed with him on public matters, and denies such matters as are stated.

Pomeroy reported the unamended House bill to extend the provisions of the homestead act to soldiers. The House joint resolution giving pay from the date of commission to officers commissioned while in rebel prisons, passed.

The Postoffice appropriation bill was considered. The amendment of the committee striking out the clause restricting the free delivery of letters to cities of over 40,000 inhabitants, was concurred in. Stewart reviewed the amendment of Drake continuing the provisions of the law for the free transmission of newspapers. Adopted.

In the House, the report of the Election Committee in favor of McKenzie, sitting member from Virginia, was agreed to. Cobb reported from the Military Committee a bill equalizing the bounty to soldiers, allowing $8 33⅓ to non-commissioned officers, soldiers and musicians, for each month's service between the 12th of April, 1861, and the 9th of May, 1866, deducting the United States bounty already paid. Passed.

The bill granting Yerba Buena Island to the Western Pacific Railroad, was rejected—80 to 82. Motion to reconsider the vote to reject the Yerba Buena bill, was entered.

The nomination of Amos Ackerman was referred to the Committee on Judiciary by the Senate to-day. Jas. B. McKean was confirmed Chief Justice of Utah, and C. C. Crowe, Secretary of Utah. Benj. F. Pierrote, of California, was nominated Consul at Bucharest.

A Democratic Congressional caucus was held last night to secure concert of action on public measures. A paper is being prepared, addressed to Southern friends, relative to the election of members from that section.

The testimony before the Senate Select Committee on the San Domingo treaty, closed last night. It is proven that Davis Hatch was held as prisoner by the Dominican Government because it was feared that if at liberty, he would damage annexation. This is shown by official documents.

Death of a Bonaparte.

BALTIMORE, June 17.—Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte died this morning, aged 65 years. His mother, Mrs. Williams, also died.

Cuban News.

HAVANA, June 17.—The papers comment favorably on Grant's message. Prominent persons desire Congress to send a special commission to Cuba to see matters for themselves. De Rodas telegraphs that all the important part of the Upton's cargo has been captured, and gives details of the surprise of the insurgents. Only fourteen remain, and under Colonel Sono, have fled to the mountains, closely pursued by troops.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Board of Fire Commissioners last evening accepted the invitation of Gen. Casenau for the Department to join in the celebration of the Fourth of July, and then adjourned before going into an election. Gen. Casenau gives notice that the usual parade and display of advertising wagons and carts will not be permitted in the procession, believing as he does that this custom will be more honored in the breach than in the observance.

W. H. Kennedy, of San Francisco, was the man who jumped through the window of the Vallejo train, when the cars were under full speed, while dreaming of snakes, Thursday evening, and escaped uninjured. There is a proposition to give him the belt as champion jumpist of the Pacific coast.

The Managers of the Mercantile Library Gift Concert received an order from New York yesterday, by telegraph, for $30,000 tickets in the Gift Concert business.

John W. Bennett, eldest son of R. H. Bennett of Oakland, was drowned in the Merced river, Yosemite valley, while attempting to pass the ford, on the 14th inst. He was one of the party of students of Rev. Mr. McClure's academy, at Oakland, who left but a short time since for a trip to the Yosemite valley. He was about fifteen years old, and was a bright, manly and generous boy.

Governor Haight has commissioned Washington Bartlett as member of the Board of Harbor Commissioners, vice J. H. Cutter, deceased.

Deaths last week in the city, 73, against 71 the week previous.

James Black, the oldest member of the society of California Pioneers, with the exception of Gen. Sutter, died at San Rafael to-day, aged sixty-one years.

The Bulletin comes down this evening to 25 cents a week, and the Alta will do the same to-morrow.

A co-operative laundry society, for furnishing employment to needy women, is soon to be organized in this city.

Considerable interest was manifested in the champion match of billiards between Little and McCleary, at Platt's Hall, this evening. McCleary led off at the start, and at the end of the fourth inning Little had 720 against McCleary's 144.

Wreck of the Steamer Active.

[From the Alta California, June 13.]

A telegram from Jacksonville, in Sunday's Alta announced the loss of the North Pacific Transportation Company's steamer Active, bound for Victoria from this port, and by the arrival of the steamer Pacific, from Crescent City, we have all the particulars, furnished by Mr. Drummond, one of the passengers.

It appears that on the afternoon of June 5th, when south of Cape Mendocino, the fog being very dense, the steamer was found to be in the breakers, and her course changed so as to stand out to sea, and at that moment the fog lifted so that the land could be seen. Before getting entirely out of the dangerous place, the vessel struck upon a sunken rock, which, according to the resolutions adopted by the passengers, was not indicated by any visible break upon the water, and an examination was made by the Captain and Chief Engineer, who found that the ship was making no water, and the course was again changed off the land.

Shortly afterwards, upon again sounding the pumps it was discovered that the ship had sprung a heavy leak forward.

Immediately after the discovery of this fact the Captain ordered all forward passengers aft and commenced shifting cargo aft also, when finding the water was gaining on the pumps and the ship was settling by the head, the Captain stood along the shore with the view of saving the ship in case the pumps could gain on the leak. But finding this impossible, the ship was headed straight for the shore, and everything made ready for saving the lives of the passengers by preparing all the boats for immediate use in case of necessity. That extremity did not arise, and the vessel was safely beached at a quarter to four o'clock P. M.

The boats were then lowered and manned—the first by the second officer, J. W. Partridge, the second by the first officer, J. Carr, and the third by Chief Engineer Brown. The ladies and children were first passed into the boats and landed without accident. After which, the remaining passengers were likewise landed, also the mails and baggage, with provisions and water sufficient for the occasion.

When this had been accomplished, Capt. Lyons dispatched Mr. Polk, the Purser, and Mr. O'Connor, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s messenger, to carry the intelligence of the disaster to Eureka. They started on foot at 6 o'clock P. M., and after traveling eight miles under the most trying difficulties, succeeded in obtaining horses, with which they proceeded to Eureka, a distance of 75 miles, where they arrived at 3 o'clock P. M., just in time to communicate with Capt. Sholl, of the steamer Pacific, who kindly proceeded at once to the relief of the passengers. Great praise is given to the Purser and Mr. O'Connor for the timely and unexpected aid procured through their efforts.

It was found that the wreck was about twelve miles south of Point Gordo, near Spanish Flat—twenty-two miles from Cape Mendocino, and eighteen from Shelter Cove. The steamer was firmly fixed on a rock where she had been lifted by a large wave, and in settling the rock went through the vessel's bottom and held her there.

The passengers were divided up into gangs under control of capable men, and the landing was effected without any excitement or confusion, and the high sea running rendered the utmost care necessary to prevent the boats being swamped.

When all had been safely landed at the beach, which was covered with drift logs so that there was no lack of materials for camp fires, (in fact so profuse were the materials that a brigade was organized to extinguish the flames that had communicated to the logs and threatened a new disaster), the passengers organized a meeting at which they had the following proceedings:

SPANISH FLAT, HUMBOLDT CO., CAL.,
June 6th, 1870.

At a meeting held this 6th day of June, 1870, on the beach, called Spanish Flat, about twelve miles to the southwest of Point Gordo, the passengers of the steamer Active, on her trip from San Francisco to Victoria, B. C., direct, assembled for the purpose of expressing their unbiased opinion as to the wreck of said vessel, which occurred on the afternoon of the 5th instant.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. J. S. Drummond, of Victoria, and on motion Mr. A. G. Brown, of Santa Barbara, was called to preside, when, after a few pertinent remarks from the chair, Mr. Charles S. Jones was chosen to act as Secretary of the meeting.

On motion duly adopted that the chair appoint a committee of five to draft a suitable preamble and resolutions, the following gentlemen were named: J. S. Drummond, Victoria; H. E. H. Adamson, Victoria; Prof. W. W. Theobolds, San Francisco; James Ellard, New Westminster, B. C.; and D. W. L. Allen.

After retiring for a short time, the committee returned and presented the following preamble [the facts of the preamble are used above] and resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That during this trying time, from the moment the ship first struck until eight o'clock P. M., when the boats were obliged to cease communication with the ship, on account of the darkness and the fog, which precluded the possibility of seeing fifty yards from the shore, the conduct of Capt. Lyons, his officers and crew, was noble and self-sacrificing, and we believe that to their coolness and their determination of character, displayed in the imminent danger, we are indebted, under a divine Providence, for the preservation of our lives and property.

Resolved, That we hereby tender our sincere thanks to every officer and man connected with the ship, for their unwearying and assiduous attention to the wants and necessities of the passengers after being landed, which only ceased after every one had the wants of nature supplied and were comfortably provided for for the night.

Resolved, That under the circumstances we consider ourselves wholly indebted to Captain Lyons for his prompt action in beaching the vessel, for the preservation of our lives, and we do hereby tender to him, and the officers and crew, our heartfelt thanks for their heroic and manly efforts displayed in landing us safely.

A. G. BROWN, Chairman.

CHAS. S. JONES, Secretary.

The above was endorsed by the following named passengers:

H. H. Nagle, John Sproul, W. H. Fleet, Robert Douglas, Finlay McRae, David Marshall, Edwin Bruce, Charles Stewart, D. Cruikshanks, W. H. Trumble, James Wilson, John McArdel, Luther Olds, Henry Wells, Charles Wesley, Nicholas Baker, Joseph [illegible], James Kirk, Louis Lacre, A. G. Klaschke, Wm. Molina, A. Fraser, A. Cook, Mrs. Hacklin, Miss Jennie Patterson, Emma J. Phelps, Francis E. Eaton, Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. C. E. P. Wood, Merrie Stedum, Mary Wood, Rosina Lewis, Mrs. T. F. McElroy, Mrs. Conklin, Belle Evans, Miss Elka Olds, Mrs. A. Allen, Miss Edith S. Hand, Miss S. E. Allen, Mrs. Godding, Mrs. Kelly, Alexander McQuarrie, C. A. Wattemier, James Kelly, T. O'Connell.

The messengers from the scene of the wreck having reached Eureka just in time to communicate with the Pacific, were taken on board, and she proceeded to the wreck to take off the passengers, mails and baggage. The passengers had made themselves comfortable during the time, though of course were very glad to be taken on the steamer. They were then taken to Crescent City, where the Pacific was bound when intercepted, and landed freight and passengers for that place, and then returned on Friday to the wreck to take off such freight as could be saved. From Crescent City a messenger was dispatched to Jacksonville, the nearest telegraph station, and from that point a dispatch was sent to this city on Saturday. The Humboldt Times of the 11th says Capt. Lyons, his officers and men, remained on the beach by the wreck to look after the same, and await orders from San Francisco.

The Active will prove a total loss beyond all doubt. It is thought that about one-half of the freight, of which she had about ninety tons, will be saved in a damaged condition. Nearly, if not quite all, the baggage was saved, very little of it being damaged. Some miscreant broke open a valise, and, we believe, a few petty thefts were perpetrated. Wells, Fargo & Co.'s freight was valued at $50,000, nearly all of which is badly damaged, if not utterly ruined. The total value of the cargo was probably worth, according to estimates put upon it, somewhere about $100,000.

It is a matter to rejoice at, that this disaster has been unaccompanied with the loss of life. The loss of property is heavy and to be deplored, but the other consideration, in a great measure, reconciles this. It can hardly be possible that Capt. Lyons should escape censure for finding himself so far out of the course usually taken by the Oregon-bound steamers. The weather was foggy according to the testimony of all the passengers, and the fatal rock was no doubt too deep below the surface to expose its presence; but it would seem that prudence would have suggested the propriety of giving the coast a wider berth.

When the Pacific returned to the scene of the disaster, the surf was breaking over the Active as high as her smoke stack, and all attempts to save anything more were considered useless. Boats were sent off to the shore to bring away the freight that had been saved, and in the trips back and forth three boats were capsized, but the crews got safely to the shore with their boats.

The last boat to come off had the Captain of the Active on board, but the boat swamped, and he jumped overboard and swam ashore; the crew bailed out the boat and reached the Pacific safely. Another boat was then sent off for the Captain, and in this boat the First Engineer returned, to stay by the wreck; it was now nearly dark, the surf running very high, and as there was one place to beach the boats it was feared that they might not be able to get safely to land. However, after waiting about twenty minutes, a rocket was sent up from the shore, which was taken as a signal to go on without further delay and the Pacific, having her anchor weighed, steamed off for this city.

When the second officer and a portion of the crew remained with the freight on shore, to take care of it, two of the crew who had shown signs of rebellion, and had been punished for it by their comrades, now joined with the wreckers who flocked in from the surrounding country, and attempted to take violent possession of the goods that had been saved; but a display of shotguns deterred them from carrying out their intentions. When the Pacific left, a line of camp fires could be seen, indicating that the wreckers were determined to wait, and perhaps make another attempt to pilfer.

The Active will go to pieces with the first southwest wind, and there may be some portions of her cargo remaining, that will pay the beach combers for waiting, without making an attack on the guard left in charge.

The purser came down on the Pacific to report to the owners, and the Second Engineer also came down as a passenger.

The passengers by the Active drew up the following card of thanks to the officers of the Pacific:

"We cordially return our sincere thanks to Captain Sholl, of the Pacific, for the promptness with which he acted in coming to our relief; and also to the kind and gentlemanly purser, Mr. Sublette, who left nothing undone that would add to our comfort; and to all the officers of the Pacific for their gentlemanly deportment to us in the hour of need."

The passengers arrived in this city last night, heartily glad to have got off so happily from what might have been a very melancholy affair, and they are very grateful that they have had to experience so few of the hardships usually attending a shipwreck.

Railroads for Southern Oregon.

[From the Salem Statesman.]

Southern Oregon is a beautiful region, but so entirely isolated and distant from a market as to be comparatively unimportant and valueless, save as its gold mines continue to be moderately remunerative, or its pastures and fields are used for stock raising. To have railroad communication with California and the rest of Oregon would make the farms of Rogue river and the Umpqua as valuable as any upon the coast. It can then be imagined with what interest the people of Jackson, Josephine and Umpqua counties view the progress of railroad enterprises, and the probability of their own interests being advanced by their completion. Dowell, of Jacksonville, has spent much of his time for several years past in Washington, laboring for the benefit of his section, in which he has a large property interest.

The bill which passed Congress July 25, 1866, granting lands to aid in the construction of a railroad from Sacramento to Portland, provided that the contemplated road should run through the valleys of Umpqua and Rogue river. That has been the great hope of the people of those counties, and they have watched with apprehension the progress of all enterprises that might interfere with their cherished hopes.

Among the railroad schemes attracting considerable attention, both in this State and Congress, is that for a branch road to connect Oregon with the Central Pacific road at the bend of the Humboldt. The importance of this measure is manifest to all, but, of course, there were different interests involved in its construction. It became known as the Pengra scheme, because a wagon road company, whose interests were represented by that gentleman, desired to have the route of the proposed railroad coincide with the Oregon Central Military Wagon Road, which would of course enhance the value of the lands of the corporation and be a pecuniary profit to them personally. Their object was laudable enough, but their interests were in conflict with those of Southern Oregon, which fact was made manifest upon the final passage of the Humboldt bill a few weeks since, and at the urgent request of Dowell and others, the act, when upon its final passage, was amended so as to locate the northern terminus of the Humboldt branch in the Rogue River valley. Senator Williams, it is said, procured this amendment at their request and because its necessity became apparent. So Dowell, of the Sentinel, claims, denying at the same time that Ben Holladay had anything to do with it, but asserting that the people of Southern Oregon insisted upon it.

A slight examination of the map of Oregon will show that the line of the road from the bend of the Humboldt to the Rogue River valley, traverses the most important country east of the Cascade mountains and will bring into market and make available the rich valleys of the rivers and lakes of Southern and Middle Oregon. In fact it will enrich the Oregon Central Military Road Company, by traversing the district in which their most valuable lands lie, and so give them a good valuation and a speedy market. It then accomplishes all the important results in which the people of Oregon are interested, while it possibly interferes with the wishes of some gentlemen who would like to make a railroad franchise pay a profitable tribute to their individual talents.

Leaving out of sight the mere question as to what would best please this or that corporation—for it doesn't matter a particle to us, the people, if Ben Holladay gets rich or the Central Pacific Railroad men get richer, as the latter wish to become by the possession of the Humboldt Branch route, of which they own the controlling interest—let us see what cause the people of Southern Oregon had for fearing that the completion of the Humboldt Branch via Eugene City, would leave them out of sight and indefinitely postpone all hopes for railroad facilities for Southern Oregon.

The Central Pacific Railroad men are the mammoth monopolists of this coast, a position they have attained by a remarkable and successful enterprise. It is said they now own every mile of railroad in California, including the California and Oregon Road, with which the Oregon and California Road expects to connect at the State line. There is so little good land in Northern California west of the Cascades, and the mountains between Rogue River and the Sacramento valley are so tremendous, that it seems to be conceded that Holladay must cross the Cascades at the head of Rogue River, and that the California Road must avoid these mountains by the Pitt River Pass, so that both roads shall form a junction at the State line near Goose Lake. If the California Company, owning the Humboldt Road, should refuse to so connect, but instead, should form a junction of their own roads and send all the through and paying business by the Humboldt Road and construct its own line direct on to Portland or Astoria, which it could do, it would render the other road unproductive, and the anticipation of that natural course being followed would have the effect to discourage entirely the construction of the Oregon and California Road through Southern Oregon. The possibility of this became apparent to these anxious and interested watchers and they secured their own ends by having the Humboldt Branch terminate in the valley of Rogue River, in which they were very properly, as it strikes us, aided by the efforts and influence of Senator Williams.

It does not seem to be feasible to build two roads across the Cascade mountains so near each other. The building of one is both possible and necessary. It would seem to a disinterested person that the building of one would discourage and prevent the other. The country to be accommodated is too small, and the expense of mountain roads too great. Therefore we cannot wonder that, with the most vital interests at stake, southern Oregon has claimed every possible guarantee in its favor.

Senator Williams not only acted for the best good of the greatest number, but he actually obeyed the instructions of the last Legislature, which, in passing a memorial praying for aid for a branch road from Oregon to the Central Pacific, designated that the route for the same should go through Rogue River valley; the last clause of the memorial requiring that our Senators should devote themselves to secure the success of the object of the petition.

THE WEST.

Victoria papers state that the steamer Olympia will probably be put on between that place and San Francisco.

The vote of King county, W. T., in the late election was 616. At last election 360. The increased vote of Washington Territory indicates an unusual increase of population during the past year.

At Helena, Montana Territory, June 8th, a banking firm shipped by Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express a gold brick weighing 724 ounces; coin value, $13,228. They also shipped another of the value of $7,000. Dust is coming in very freely at Helena.

By order of the Secretary of the Interior of the United States, all public lands in Idaho, occupied by pre-emption settlers, must be paid for before the 1st day of June, 1871. Settlers failing to comply with this order will be held to have forfeited their claims as pre-emptors under the law.

A Victoria paper says: Whilst here the Flying Squadron lost by desertion fifty or sixty seamen who bolted for the opposite side. On Monday, a telegram informs us, two of the deserters, having been deceived by a Siwash, who landed them from his canoe on San Juan Island, instead of taking them to the American side, surrendered themselves at the English Camp and will be brought back in the gunboat Boxer.

The Seattle paper of June 13 says: The Wilson G. Hunt arrived at this port on Friday morning under command of Captain Willoughby, en route to San Francisco. Early on Sunday she proceeded to Port Townsend, and thence at Neah Bay would await favorable weather before proceeding further. We understand upon arriving at her destination, that she will be put in complete repair, and thereafter ply between San Francisco and inland ports, by many of whose residents she will be recognized as an old favorite with a history cotemporaneous with the American settlement of the Pacific coast.

The Daily Oregonian.

MONDAY MORNING JUNE 20 1870

The Late Contest

It is now evident that if the Republicans throughout the State had been perfectly united and harmonious in the late campaign they might have succeeded The majorities against them are very small and they have lost the Legislature when less than fifty additional votes at [illegible] had been secured where needed would have saved it

In Washington county an unfortunate division of the party was the means of depriving the State ticket of a considerable number of votes In Lane opposition was made to the ticket which did it injury and resulted in loss The same was the case in Douglas That county with good feeling among the Republicans and good work on their part could have been carried In Coos and Curry there was an open rupture which resulted in running two Republican candidates for the Legislature and the defeat of both by a Democrat, with consequent loss to the Republican State ticket We could enumerate other instances of want of harmonious action among Republicans all of which cost the party some votes Yet in spite of these dissensions our aggregate vote is nearly 1 000 larger than in the last general election, while the Democratic vote shows no increase at all

Most of the dissensions were from causes of a frivolous nature, and were therefore without excuse We trust the good sense of Republicans will prevent a recurrence of them What has passed must be forgotten, and every feeling of a personal character must be sunk in the desire to secure a common object In general, the spirit of the Republican party is excellent It is not demoralized by its recent defeat but feels that on the next trial success is certain

West Side Mail

The counties lying on the west side of the Wallamet river have long wanted a daily mail People residing there will be gratified to know that their wants in this particular are to now be fully supplied On the 1st July a daily mail service will be commenced having one of its termini at this city and the other at Corvallis The route will run by way of Hillsboro, Forest Grove, North Yamhill, Lafayette, McMinnville, Amity, Dallas, Monmouth, Independence and Buena Vista From Portland to McMinnville four horse coaches will be run, and two horse hacks from McMinnville to Corvallis. The contractor is J D Carr, whose well known energy in this line of business will secure an efficient service. He is now engaged in stocking the road

Very substantial benefits will result from the establishment of this new daily line The west side counties will now have the advantage of an established and permanent line of travel, and will besides be furnished with long needed mail accommodations Heretofore the chances of obtaining conveyance to many of the points on this route have been difficult and uncertain, and the east side counties have in this regard possessed a considerable advantage over those on the west side of the river

This mail service has been secured directly by the influence of Senator Williams, who went to the Postmaster General and made an earnest appeal for it. Without his action in its behalf it could not have been obtained It is not out of place to call the attention of the people of the counties to be most benefited by this service to the fact that the man who can procure such substantial benefits as this is the man who is to be superseded by some one who will be entirely powerless to do anything for the good of Oregon But as the people of Oregon have so ordered it they are entitled to have it so, and besides are entitled to all the other advantages (?) they will obtain from their approval of repudiation and from their action in sending repudiators to Congress to be an incubus upon their State.

"Is the OREGONIAN," asks the Albany Democrat, "willing to admit that the State is committed to repudiation or will it admit that it has misrepresented the majority of the people of Oregon?" The OREGONIAN is not willing to admit that the State is committed to repudiation, for the fact is a most unwelcome and disgraceful one, but it is forced to admit it. It has not misrepresented a majority of the people of Oregon for they have [illegible] to tarnish the honor of their State and the national honor with it We deeply regret the shameful fact and shall not cease to labor till the action of Oregon is reversed The Democratic party of this State is in favor of repudiation; but that party can grow no larger as the ex rebel immigration has ceased, and two years hence those who believe in national faith and honesty will be a majority of the people of this State

It takes the Democratic organ at Oregon City to expound the doctrines of the "white man's party." Alluding to the election of Judge Boise by the help of the colored vote it says "White voters, what do you think of this? The wishes of 3 000 white voters are overruled by fifteen or twenty negroes in your State Remember these things at your next election In another place the same paper says "Judge Boise appears to have a majority of eighteen votes It is a close shave for him and we wish that ten out of those eighteen votes were cast for Mr Bonham" So, then, it is a terrible outrage for Judge Boise to be elected by the votes of eighteen colored men, but if Mr Bonham had secured ten of them it would be all right and the "white voters of Oregon would have no reason to object That's what's the matter

Among the candidates looming up for the United States Senate is the "retired statesman and warrior" the venerable General Joseph Lane The other day he came out of his retirement and made a speech at Roseburg, the first one he has delivered for several years He is said to be an earnest pursuit of the position, and to have a number of supporters in the Legislature It would be a most excellent retribution for Messrs Nesmith, Bush, Grover and others if he should be elected

Mr A B Hallock is to be the Democratic candidate for Councilman in the First Ward Or rather he is to be the candidate of some parties who have jobs to be attended to in the Council He is one of those sturdy Democrats who went a fishing at the time of the last city election and allowed his party to suffer a crushing defeat Perhaps he will be remembered for it to day

For a year or two Mr A Rosenheim has not cut much of a figure in public But we hear that he is to be brought out as the Democratic candidate for Councilman in the Second Ward to-day As the Council does not now elect the Marshal we suppose that Mr Rosenheim is not pledged to vote for himself for that office this time

Tomato Sauce and Warming Pans

At last the whole thing is out The infamous means by which Multnomah county was carried for the Republican ticket has been discovered by the Democratic organ and the exposure that follows is terrible enough to

> Make mad the guilty and appal the free
> Confound the ignorant and amaze indeed
> The very faculties of eyes and ears

The overwhelming evidence of the colossal fraud by which the Democrats were beaten in Multnomah county [illegible] the shape of notes written [illegible] Republican [illegible] These notes it is said were [illegible] somewhere Already we doubt not the public have conned them with breathless interest The first of them was a request for a "re-inforcement" for one of the city precincts the second was of the same grossly fraudulent and corrupt nature If we admit that these two notes are what they purport to be that they were actually written by a Republican manipulator that their object was to have the Republican force rallied and brought out so that the precinct could be carried what defense can be offered for a fraud so corrupt in its conception and so villainous in its execution? The most brazen of the opponents of that brave old honest party the Democracy must after such an exposure hang their heads in shame What is the country coming to when that party of purity and correct principles is beaten by gigantic frauds of this description? The better class of citizens may well indeed begin to despair of the Republic!

When that rakish old fellow, Pickwick was trifling with the affections of the esteemed lady who subsequently brought an action against him and made him suffer for his infidelity to his promises he wrote two notes produced on the trial and were conclusive against him The substance of them if we remember rightly the law had the facts in the celebrated case of Bardell vs Pickwick was tomato sauce and warming pans So clear was case made by these two notes which were produced in court in the hand writing of the accused that he was convicted of breach of promise and sentenced to pay a heavy penalty So in the case of the parties mentioned in these two notes calling for "re inforcements" on election day —it is difficult to discover how they can escape As Mr Pickwick's "two notes" on tomato sauce and warming pans" did the business for him, so these "two notes" in regard to "re-inforcements" are unmistakable evidence of the frauds by which the unsuspecting Democracy of this county were cheated and out worked by the Radicals in the late election Language is inadequate to characterize such an offense It is a deed without a name — unless indeed, we should call on Dogberry to define it, who would probably denominate it "flat burglary" at the very least

Curious to Know

We are curious to know what Senator Williams gained by selling out to Holladay in the matter of the Humboldt railroad bill Can anybody tell us? —Herald.

Here is an instance where a person invents a story, assumes it to be true in order to make it the basis of an infamous charge against a public man and a political opponent, and then sneeringly asks what personal gain has accrued to him from it Did the last Legislature "sell out to Holladay in the matter of the Humboldt railroad? Senator Williams has acted in accordance with their memorial, only that and nothing more. He has insisted that a certain railroad should follow a route that was closely and minutely mapped out by the late Democratic Legislature of this State The person who charges him with having "sold out to Holladay" in this matter, makes the same charge against that body It appears that the Herald in order to get a blow at Senator Williams is willing to fix this stigma upon its own party

Since it has been asked what Senator Williams gained by insisting on a railroad for southern Oregon, it will be in order to state what he might have gained by supporting the Humboldt Middle Fork route One million of stock in that enterprise might have been his reward That he was approached with such an offer the Humboldt road ring will not deny, for it can be proven But he preferred to perform his duty to his State and they who had failed to purchase his aid and influence for their own aggrandizement at once set all their dogs —Tray Blanche and Sweetheart,—barking at his heels

It would have been a pretty thing indeed if he had gone in with Pengra Tom Fitch and others upon a secret agreement to crib sundry millions of preferred, unassessable stock after the example set by Messrs Gaston Ladd and others, in the west side road!

Eighteen counties give Wilson 10 155 and Slater 10,344 votes Two years ago these eighteen counties gave Logan 9 801 and Smith 10,621 Four counties are yet to be heard from officially These four counties are reported to have given Slater about 250 majority So far Wilson's vote is 799 ahead of Logan's in 1868 and Slater's is 77 behind Smith's

The Herald is worried because we published an article from the Washington Chronicle for which due credit was given As that paper has frequently been known to take articles from other papers and publish them as its own editorials, without giving credit therefor it is exhibiting in this case somewhat more than usual of its native brass.

Republicans! turn out and vote for Councilmen to-day It is in your power to elect the men placed in nomination They are men who will serve the city well Don't fail to go and vote!

CURRENT NOTES

The Ashtabula (Ohio) Sentinel denies the statement that has been floating round the country that Ben Wade is a candidate for Congress from Mr Garfield's district

Official returns received at the Bureau of Statistics show that during the month of April there was exported from the port of New York fish spawns to the value of $1 [illegible] Of this amount $4 $18 was exported to England, $4 000 to Scotland, $5 652 to France and $ 40 to Bremen There was also exported to France during the same month silkworm eggs valued at $5 0

John Morrissey's blunder in allying himself with the New York Young Democracy will probably cost him his place in Congress There are three candidates for it already— Brick Pomeroy, of the Democrat Assistant District Attorney Fellows, formerly of Arkansas and one of the most popular speakers in New York and Wm H Roberts formerly President of the Fenian Brotherhood

Philadelphia has a great divorce case Mrs Louisa Koecher charges her husband Dr Leonard K a well known dentist, of having been unfaithful and of ornamenting his office with unchaste statuettes and pictures He alleges, however, that in a time of pecuniary difficulties, he made over his property to his wife and that she wants to leave him and retain it The parties are worth about $75 000 each, she being an heiress, have lived happily for twenty four years, and has three children, one at a convent school in Boston

OREGON

A campmeeting under the auspices of the M E Church, commenced on Thursday near Dayton

A large force of men are now at work on the railroad beyond Aurora. The road will run directly through that place

A dispatch from Marysville (Cal) June 13th, says Ten or twelve emigrant families went up on the California and Oregon Railroad to day en route to Jacksonville, as an advance party of a colony of 200 families from Maine

The grasshoppers have made their appearance in Baker county in perfect swarms Last summer they devastated every farm in Burnt River valley, and the farmers all fear they will do the crops in this valley a great deal of damage this season. Nothing will prevent this calamity unless it is a heavy fall of rain

The Albany Democrat states that on the 7th inst., a little son of Dr Wright of Corvallis while attempting to swim Mary's River, near its mouth, was washed out into the Willamette by the velocity of the current and drowned before succor could arrive At last advices the body had not yet been recovered, though every exertion had been made to resurrect it from its watery grave

From the Baker City Democrat From the most authentic sources we learn that the amount of moneys shipped below through the public channels of transportation during the month ending June 10th, aggregate $55,350 05, of which $40,273 53 was in gold dust, $12 453 12 in bullion $218 40 in coin and $500 in valuable packages In addition to the above we have received information of a considerable amount of gold dust having been carried to Portland by private parties but what the precise amount was it is impossible for us to conjecture

Another convict has escaped from the penitentiary,—Patrick Kelly, of Umatilla county under sentence for life The Statesman has the following account of the escape It seems that thirteen convicts were working in the upper brick yard under an overseer and two guards Kelly being some distance from the rest, was observed by the guard to be going closer to the pickets than the rules permit He was ordered to halt but kept right on deliberately tore off a picket and squeezed through The guard next to him for some reason failed to shoot until too late and the one on the other side ran up but before he could get a shot it became evident that the other convicts were liable to break, and it was necessary to let him go for the time A reward of $400 is offered for his arrest, and a large number of citizens are scouting the woods It is thought impossible for him to escape, though he is a bad man and desperate and may be killed in taking him

The system of protection to home industry is no new thing It has been identified with the progress of the country from the earliest periods and to this system is to be attributed the triumph of Yankee ingenuity in all the industrial pursuits A recent meeting of the Boston shoe and leather dealers has given occasion to the Advertiser of that city to narrate that in 1793 two citizens of Philadelphia Ebenezer Breed and Zaccheus Collins both natives of Lynn and formerly residing there consulted together and came to the conclusion that the business of their native town would be greatly increased by the duties on foreign boots and shoes With this end in view Mr Breed first secured through the influence of his friends and acquaintances in Lynn a resolution of the General Court of Massachusetts recommending the further encouragement of this industry Mr Collins in order to do his share of the work then made a formal dinner party for a number of the leading members of Congress—Philadelphia being at that time the seat of Government Mr Madison was among his guests and the claims of the New England shoemakers was the chief subject of conversation The result was the incorporation into the tariff act of 1794 of a provision adding to the duty already existing on boots twenty five cents a pair and on shoes five cents a pair these being the only manufactures for which an increased duty was provided by that act The duty was effective because specific The consequence was the firm establishment of the boot and shoe industry in Massachusetts and its development into a self sustaining prosperity before other manufactures had obtained a foot hold on our soil

Orders have been received at the Springfield (Mass) Armory for making 3 000 cadet rifles which are designed for distribution to military schools throughout the country, under the conditions of a recent act of Congress.

ASHLAND June 14 1870

EDITOR OREGONIAN

We have just passed through the warmest political campaign ever had in this county and if the details of the fight had been thoroughly followed out we would have been triumphant although we had a majority of 0 to overcome Enough straight laced Republicans refrained from voting the people's ticket to have changed the result so far as to have defeated Fay and some of the county candidates

The changing of the terminus of the Humboldt branch of the Pacific Railroad from Eugene City to [illegible] valley was the main issue in [illegible] although many [illegible] were strong bound in their opposition [illegible] by their repugnance to the fatal eighth resolution of the Democratic platform

We of [illegible] are exceedingly grateful to the OREGONIAN for its bold and energetic defense [illegible] in this vital matter It [illegible] ought to be paramount to all other questions to Southern Oregon for unless the Humboldt Branch connects in Rogue River valley our chances for a railroad are very poor

GRAND JURY REPORT [illegible] The [illegible] Jury closed [illegible] on Saturday and presented the following report

To the Hon [illegible] Judge of the Supreme Court We the [illegible] Jury [illegible] we have been in session [illegible] days and have examined into fourteen cases and found seven indictments.

That we have visited the Insane Asylum County Poor House County and City Jail and have examined the Probate Records

The Insane Asylum is kept in excellent order The Insane [illegible] confined there A large number [illegible] We visited all departments of the institution including the wards in which the patients are confined the kitchen dining room wash room store room and pleasure grounds We found them all cleanly well ventilated and in every way adapted to the safe keeping and comfort of the inmates We believe that the institution has few if any superiors among that class of private institutions in our country

The Poor House and Farm situated two miles west from the city is in a healthy condition abundantly supplied with wood and pure water Enough of the land is susceptible of cultivation to aid materially in the support of the poor by their labor if properly directed but we are pained to report that we find nothing about the institution owing to the manner in which it is conducted that commends it to our favorable consideration The arrangement in and about it is poorly managed for the comfort and convenience of the inmates The principal room in which the sick are kept is badly ventilated and the privy which is in close proximity to said room produces a stench and should be removed The inmates complain for the want of wholesome food and we are of the opinion that the practice of letting the care of the poor of the county to the lowest bidder is a bad one. The manner in which the Poor House is conducted clearly demonstrates that the person selected by the county should be one who is peculiarly adapted to conduct such an institution

The County Jail is in good order, kept clean, and is secure

The City Jail is insecure but well kept

We find the Probate Records safely and neatly kept; but in turning upon section 1 047 of the Code page all requires that seven different books of record shall be kept relating to Probate matters while heretofore but one has been furnished by the county and all record of Probate business entered therein

All of which is respectfully submitted

FOUND DEAD—VERDICT OF A CORONER'S JURY —Information reached this city yesterday stating that a man had been found the day before, dead in the road near Springville In the absence of the Coroner John C Work went down and held an inquest upon the remains and through his kindness we have a copy of the verdict rendered by the jury The name of the deceased was Joseph Walker a resident of Washington county, across the mountain from Springville On the morning of Saturday he was in Springville apparently in ordinary health He started up the mountain road and in a few hours some one passing that way found him lying dead in the road. The jury upon hearing all the facts returned the following verdict

"We the jury acting in the capacity above stated, being summoned by John C. Work, Esq, to hold an inquest upon the body of Joseph Walker deceased find from all the evidence that deceased came to his death from the determination of blood to the heart Age of deceased, 63 years (Signed) Peter Saltman J M Hart S M Kyle, Henry Dustin, Jas Scott, Andrew Guber

LETTERS OF INQUIRY —The Secretary of the Board of Statistics Immigration and Labor Exchange continues to receive great numbers of letters of inquiry from all parts of the Eastern States from persons desirous of emigrating to Oregon The interest excited among Eastern people through the publications of the Board seems to be wider spread than at any former time and it would seem that it is a matter of the first importance to sustain the Board in its career of usefulness We understand that its financial condition is considerably cramped a fact which does not speak very well for the men of means here who profess so much solicitude for the settlement and development of Oregon Let them come out with material aid for the Board and thus make their interest manifest

JUDGES OF ELECTION.—The following named persons are judges and clerks of the election to be held to-day

Well executed counterfeit tickets of the Mercantile lottery are in circulation Parties here from the East are taking the advice of eminent lawyers on the legality of lotteries in the State, with a view of going into them extensively from this time to the meeting of the next legislature They claim that if the penalty has been repealed, and a law passed allowing any party to conduct lotteries no penalty can attach to any other party engaging in the same business on the ground that the constitution provides that all general laws which may be enacted must be uniform in operation, and that it cannot be a crime for one man to do what another may do lawfully If the Mercantile Library Lottery is carried through successfully they will start a similar scheme on a smaller scale, in order to bring the matter into court and have a test case made, then go into business regularly Persons who have been engaged in the lottery business where it is now prohibited are ready to furnish any required amount of capital to start in such business here depending to a great measure on orders for tickets from other States

This morning about 7 o'clock a well dressed woman with a child in her arms ran out to the end of Folsom street wharf threw the body into the Bay then jumped in herself Two sailors from the steamer [illegible] jumped in and sustained the mother and child afloat until the [illegible] of the steamer Oriflamme reached them with a boat and rescued both The woman said God had driven her from her house and compelled her to do it then suddenly became apparently sane and said she was the wife of Wm Roach residing on Caroline street who having been out of work some time had enlisted in the navy or marines Roach and wife left home at six o'clock she carrying the child in her arms leaving two children in bed He went on board the steamer for Mare Island and she started to church but became insane before reaching there She is locked up for examination

A large number of our citizens are in the country to day, and the town is unusually quiet

ORIGIN OF FAIRBANKS SCALES.—The Chicago Journal of Commerce contains the following

About the year 1830 the hemp fever broke out in Central Vermont In Caledonia and Lamoille counties the farmers entered largely into its production and it was this enterprise which eventually proved so unprofitable to those who engaged in it that gave birth to one of the most important instruments in the civilized world the platform scale

It came about something in this wise Merchants and others had made contracts to purchase hemp by weight and as it was a slow process to weigh such bulky material with the old fashioned steelyards Mr Thaddeus Fairbanks who has great inventive talent by this circumstance had his attention called to the science of weighing and in a short time he invented and had constructed a rude apparatus which he suspended in a frame building and which answered the purpose of weighing the hemp This rude weighing machine was the first platform scale for although there have been various and multiform improvements since the principle of leverage etc upon which the instrument was got up is precisely the same as that of the platform scale to-day

The inventor's older brother Erastus, discovered at once that this was a useful invention and a patent was applied for and obtained This in brief was the commencement of the scale business, which has now grown into world wide notoriety It increased very slowly for the first ten years but from 184[illegible] to 18[illegible] it doubled every three years Owing to the financial [illegible] of the latter year there was [illegible] for several years but since 1860 it has grown with immense strides The production now amounts to about $1[illegible] year The firm expend [illegible] in advertising In their factory [illegible] men are employed and a handsome village [illegible] built up [illegible] St Johnsbury Vt

The senior partner Erastus Fairbanks was for two terms Governor of the State of Vermont His son and his younger brother Joseph [illegible] the original inventor It has been his lot [illegible] that of many inventors to enjoy the rewards of his skill and industry

A [illegible] of these [illegible] scales [illegible] was received [illegible] & Kate No 91 Front street They are equal [illegible] and pleasing [illegible] a neat [illegible] Stand [illegible] is the greatest and finest in Oregon [illegible]

Thrice Armed!

Thrice is he armed who keeps within reach of his hand a specific that at one and the same time will strengthen regulate and purify his system when enfeebled and disordered and corrupted

Such is the threefold operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, and hence the great superiority of that standard vegetable restorative over all medicines that are merely tonics and nothing else The effect of the ordinary astringent tinctures and extracts upon the bowels is disastrous and upon the depraved blood or bile they produce no beneficial effects whatever In dyspepsia and liver complaints all the fluids and humors of the body are more or less infected, and the bowels are often badly constipated An unmodified astringent—quinine for instance—does infinitely more harm than good in such cases In Hostetter's Bitters on the other hand the stimulating and tonic elements are [illegible] with aperients and antiseptic ingredients The finest laxatives and blood depurents in the vegetable kingdom are intermixed with those [illegible] purely invigorating ones and [illegible] the operation [illegible] combination the [illegible] important [illegible] of invigoration regulation and purification go together The rapidity with which the disordered organization returns to its natural condition under a course of the Bitters is due [illegible] Every disturbed function of the body is favorably affected by the [illegible] properties of this appropriate and well balanced preparation As a general rule the bowels are subject to irregularities and the fluids liable to become vitiated and hence the Bitters are especially valuable as an alterative corrective and invigorant In all districts where the seeds of intermittent fever [illegible] the air the healthful vegetable stimulant should be taken as a protective medicine

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily increases The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling test mony of the counterfeiters Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice

Chinese Civilization Compared with Ours

The [illegible] ago [illegible] contains the following:

I [illegible] first [illegible] that man kind like the various inferior orders of creation is constructed on the principle of infinite diversity at [illegible] constant effort [illegible] repeating herself whether in races or individuals. A letter from the [illegible] Mr [illegible] to the New York [illegible] some remarkable contrasts [illegible] tions and [illegible] The mariner's [illegible] to point South instead of North [illegible] the index on the [illegible] left [illegible] a rider mounts a horse from the off side instead of black[illegible] chalk the old men fly the kites while the boys look on. An American as [illegible] hospitality treats you to a glass of wine. A Chinaman introduces you to his dead grandmother in her coffin. He shows you his own [illegible] with bland politeness as a Frenchman [illegible] show you his pictures or an Englishman his dogs. To express his pleasure at [illegible] you he does not shake your hand [illegible] his own, moving them up and down as if he were pumping out his feelings and the grief was slow. In cases of the small pox and the [illegible] this mode of salutation has the highest hygienic qualities. Instead of taking off his hat on coming into your presence he takes off his shoes. As a mark of special honor at a feast he seats you at his left hand, not at his right, and sends your ladies into the inferior room to eat by themselves, so you can get as drunk as you please without gratifying their curiosity. Unmarried women are regarded of very little account, but mothers always rule their children and grandchildren to whatever age they may attain. Here on the contrary pretty young girls command all who approach them and the rule of children over their parents is only less perfect than their sway over the grand parents. Here you ask a father how many children he has and he answers perhaps three. In China he would answer one child and two girls. The Chinese men wear frocks and carry fans, and the women wear pantaloons and smoke. In these respects the two countries are not very unlike. When a man marries his mother acquires the right to 'boss' his wife as well as himself, which is very consoling to all parties. The mother-in-law is consoled by having one more to boss over. The husband is consoled by the feeling that his labor is divided. The daughter in law is consoled by knowing that she'll do the same when she becomes a mother-in-law. In China your dressmaker is a man, if you are a woman but the person who constructs your hat for you is a woman. The men wear their hair braided and never cut it, esteeming it as St Paul says "an ornament." The women do theirs up very close or shingle it short, feeling as the Apostle remarks, that it is a shame to them to wear long hair. A book is read from the left of the page to the right, from the bottom to the top, and beginning with the last of the page and ending with the first. The written language is not spoken, and the spoken language is not written, so that two persons may be able to understand each other perfectly by writing when neither can comprehend a word the other may say. The detectives sound a [illegible] tom as they go through the streets to warn the rogues and thieves that they are coming. The tax collectors are regarded not as officers of the Government, but as licensed thieves authorized to take all they can get without exciting any insurrections which they cannot themselves suppress. But one of their wisest customs, worthy of all imitation by Christians, is, when they get very angry with their friends, and nothing but vengeance can slack their fury, they kill themselves in the confident belief that the enduring remorse of their friends, at having been the cause of the death, will far exceed their own temporary and trifling inconvenience in dying. The more seriously we reflect upon the profound deduction of the Chinese philosophy the more we are impressed with admiration and surprise that it never struck Christians in exactly the same light. This brings the sweets of revenge within the reach of every deserving young man or woman. It enables every afflicted person who can afford to invest five cents in ratsbane, or half that sum in rope, to punish his enemies to his heart's content without ever being subject to trial except by a Coroner's jury, who would generally find a verdict of complete justification. Had Daniel McFarland, for instance, been brought up under the teachings of Boodh and Kong-fut-se instead of Theodore Parker, he would have shot himself instead of Richardson, and would have left a very happy couple in existence to lament his faults and plant flowers over his grave.

Penn's Escape

A LETTER FROM COTTON MATHER — PURITAN PLOT TO CAPTURE WILLIAM PENN AND SELL HIM IN BARBADOES FOR RUMME AND SUGAR

[From the Easton (Pa.) Argus.]

Mr Judkins, the Librarian of the Massachusetts Historical Society, in overhauling a chest of old papers deposited in the archives of that body by the late Robert Greenleaf of Malden, has recently made a curious discovery which has especial interest for the people of Pennsylvania. Among these paper was one of ancient date which bore this indorsement: "Ye scheme to bagge Penne." This curious title attracted the attention of Mr Judkins, and he examined the contents of the document with more than common interest. It is the familiar and quaint handwriting of the Rev Cotton Mather, and is addressed to "Ye aged and beloved Mr John Higginson." It bears date, September ye 15th, 1682, and reads thus, the odd spelling of the original being followed to the letter:

"There bee now at sea a shippe (for our friend Mr Esaias Holcroft, of London, did advise me by the last packet that it wolde saile some time in August) called ye Welcome, R Greenaway, master, which has aboard an hundred or more of ye heretic and malignants called Quakers, with W Penne, who is ye Chief Scampe, at ye head of them. Ye General Court has accordingly given secret orders to Master Malachi Huxett of ye brig Porpoise to waylaye ye said Welcome slylie as near ye coast of Codde as may be and make captive ye said Penne and his ungodlie crew, so that ye Lord may be glorified and not mocked on ye soil of this new countrie with ye heathen worshippe of these people. Much spoyle can be made by selling ye whole lotte of Barbadoes, where slaves fetch good prices in rumme and sugar, and shall not only do ye Lord great service by punishing ye wicked but we shall make great gayne for his ministers and people. Master Huxett feels hopefull and I will set down the newes he brings when his shippe comes back.

Yours in ye bowells of Christ,
COTTON MATHER."

Master Huxett missed his [illegible] and Penn sailed secure within the capes of the Delaware. But it is curious to reflect on the narrow chance by which the founder of this commonwealth escaped the fate of many of his religious brethren who were cast ashore on the relentless coast of Massachusetts. It is strange to fancy the wise lawgiver endeared to the hearts of a great people and to posterity by his wisdom, sagacity and benevolence, hoeing sugar in Barbadoes under the lash of a Yankee overseer, or crushing [illegible] into rum to thaw the granite gizzard which Mather and his theological brethren carried about in stead of hearts. Ah how the [illegible] Cotton must have mourned for the mark [illegible] Quakers and the refreshing [illegible] not. It is delightful to think how [illegible] ever got a bit of the spoyle which his devilish old soul held in [illegible] and [illegible] how Brother Higginson watched fondly for his hogsheads and dreamed of swallowing his half score of heretic [illegible] punches. They will have made a [illegible] of the Great Founder in a literal sense if they had got him, but thanks to [illegible] of R Greenaway, master, they did not get him.

CO-OPERATION OF WIVES. — No man ever prospered in the world without the co-operation of his wife. If she unites in mutual endeavors or rewards his labors with an endearing smile, with what confidence will he resort to his merchandise or his farm, fly over the land, sail upon the seas, meet difficulties and encounter danger, if he knows he is not spending his strength in vain, but that his labor will be rewarded by the sweets of home! Solitude and disappointment enter the history of every man's life, and he is but half provided for the voyage who finds but an associate for happy hours, while for his months of darkness and distress no sympathising partner is prepared.

VICTORIA [illegible] THE RE[illegible] — [illegible] correspondent [illegible] Queen [illegible] but [illegible] London [illegible] superiority [illegible] a mere [illegible] that [illegible] her hand on [illegible] Christian [illegible] The Queen's [illegible] Her Majesty [illegible] transfer [illegible] farm [illegible] with marks [illegible] eagerly excited her English subjects by conferring upon him the title of Royal Highness, and further roused their indignation by placing him upon a footing of equality with the highest [illegible] where the English [illegible] the general [illegible] has no right to any thing whatever. But the return of Her Majesty's [illegible] ago. We have not yet heard the name of the mysterious individual who so [illegible] they say, likely to win the soft white hand of Queen Victoria, but there is little doubt that England would rejoice over any event which would draw her from her long and persistent seclusion.

The New York Herald in an article intended to galvanize the party says: "If the Democracy make no mistakes it may easily elect a majority in the next Congress. That is [illegible] 'Mistakes' have been a sad drawback on the party for many years past. It has plastered itself all over with mistakes, and is itself a mistake which is said to be 'worse than a crime.' The end of an effort to get control of the next Congress will scarcely meet the dignity of a mistake. It will be a br[illegible] the [illegible] no more change [illegible] than the Democratic party its past record.
